Abstract

The Influence of the Neo-Conservatives' Theory on the Orientations of The American Foreign Policy post September 11th Events

Khalid S. Qatamin

Mu'tah University 2007

This study aims to clarify the great impact of the Neo-conservatives on the orientations of the American foreign policy post September 11th events. It also aims to discover the essence of the Neo-Conservatives' theory roots, its intellectual and institutional connections within the American community, the Neo-Conservatives relations with conservative religious wing (Christian Fundamentalists) the networking between these two wings with Zionism and Israel, and the overall effect of this on the American foreign policy.

By using both descriptive and analytical methods, the study shows that the influence of the Neo-Conservatives' theory on the orientations of the American foreign policy was shifted from realistic to radical Empire paying no attention to the International Law or International legitimacy, unhesitant to use force to topple regimes employing new vision in achieving its national interest through imperial conduct based on the use of force, especially in the Middle East region, within ideological framework which reflects the Neo-Conservatives' vision in the post cold war world, which include concepts such as constructive chaos, preemptive strikes and dissemination of democracy. The actual application of the Neo-Conservatives' theory was in Iraq where the American policy is confused and unsteady. The new developments indicate the decreasing effect of the Neo-Conservatives on the American foreign policy after the Democrats control of the Congress and asking the US president to reschedule the withdrawal of the American troops from Iraq.
